SERIES SCORING EXPLANATION

The goal is to get the HIGHEST score at the end of the Series. Each race will be weighted both on length and the size of the field for each race. These correction factors will make it much more competitive and fair.

$$(\text{LENGTH}) + (\text{FIELD SIZE RANKING}) = \text{SCORE}$$

Here's a few examples of how it'll work for Race #1. It's an 8HR race, and say we have 20 Teams competing.

- Appalachian Bear Attack finishes in 1st place. Since the field size is 20 Teams, they receive the highest possible FIELD SIZE RANKING (20). $(8) + (20) = 28$
- The NorthStar finishes in 6th place. Since the field size is 20 Teams, they receive the FIELD SIZE RANKING (14). $(8) + (14) = 22$
- Topo Adventure Sports starts out too hard, blows up, and finishes last. They receive the lowest possible FIELD SIZE RANKING (1). $(8) + (1) = 9$

The same format will be used for Division rankings based on numbers of Teams for each Division. Since Race#2 and Race#3 are both 12HR races, those will be weighted as LENGTH (12). Final Scores for the Series will simply be a tally of all three races.

Finally, the Top 5 Overall Finishers will be removed from the Division Rankings at the end, so it'll keep things more competitive for our mid-pack racers, and also prevent teams from ending up on the Podium for both rankings.
